

27th CTN Workshop
Corvinus University of Budapest
May 23-24, 2024

CALL FOR PAPERS

Corvinus University of Budapest (Institute of Economics) is happy to host the 27th Coalition Theory Network (CTN) Workshop on Thursday 23 - Friday 24 May 2024.

KEYNOTE SPEAKERS

Bettina Klaus
University of Lausanne

Friederike Mengel
University of Essex

Szilvia Pápai
Concordia University

IMPORTANT DATES

Submission starts: January 8, 2024

Submission deadline: February 16, 2024

Decisions on acceptance: March 18, 2024

Contact: 2024CTN@gmail.com

The Coalition Theory Network (CTN) is an association of ten high-level scientific institutions whose aim has been the advancement and diffusion of research in the (very broadly defined) areas of network theory and coalition formation for almost thirty years. From the beginning, the annual workshop has brought together an international group of scholars to discuss current developments, form new collaborations, and foster the use of theory in applied research.

SUBMISSIONS

Papers or extended abstracts in pdf format can be submitted as of January 8, 2024, using this website ctn2024.sciencesconf.org. You need to have an account to submit your paper. Please include abstract and keywords in your submission. PhD students' applications are particularly welcome.

SCIENTIFIC COMMITTEE

- Anna Bogomolnaia (Adam Smith Business School, University of Glasgow)
- Yann Bramoullé (Aix-Marseille School of Economics)
- Dominik Karos (Center for Mathematical Economics, Bielefeld University)
- Andy Mackenzie (Department of Microeconomics and Public Economics, Maastricht University)
- Pau Milán (MOVE, Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona)
- Agnieszka Rusinowska (Centre d'Économie de la Sorbonne, Paris I)
- Vincent Vannetelbosch (Center for Operations Research and Econometrics, UCLouvain)
- Shlomo Weber (Department of Economics, Southern Methodist University, Dallas)
- Myrna Wooders (Department of Economics, Vanderbilt University)

LOCAL ORGANIZERS

Vyacheslav Arbuzov, Toygar T. Kerman, Anastas P. Tenev
Corvinus University of Budapest